WIFE OF FLORIDA SENATOR

THE past week has been socially busy only because of coming and goings, though a few so-ciabilities in the way of dinners were held within its limits. Many more starts for summer travel have taken place, and still others are in contemplation for the 15th, so that to get together an assemblage such as was possible a fortnight ago is now out of the question. The customary quiet of the summer months has not arrived yet by any means, nor is it likely to do so, in the hotel sections, at least, until that far-away period, when Congress will adjourn is closer at hand.

Natural interest will, of course, center on the White House Monday, June 19, which is the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary for the President and Mrs. Taft.
This interesting White House event will recall a bit of romance in the girlhood of the first lady of the land.

President and Mrs. Hayes celebrated their silver wedding in the White House the 30th of December, 1877, and Miss Helen L. Herron, now Mrs. Taft, the daughter of President Hayes' law partner, was present as a young girl. Miss Herron told President Hayes, who was her godfather, that she would never be married to a man who would not become President. It is said that President Hayes advised her to become an Ohio man's wife if she wished to realize that dream.

President Hayes' silver wedding thirty-four years ago was the last and perhaps the only event of the kind in the White House.

Col. W. H. Crook, in his reminiscences of five administrations, says:
"The first December that the Hayes' spent in the White House was marked by a particularly interesting event. The 30th, which came on Sunday, was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of the President and his wife, and on the 31st there was a silver wedding reception. Mrs.
Hayes stood under a floral wedding bell and wore a gown of heavy white silk, the neck cut heart-shaped and filled in with illusion. It was at first reported to be the dress she had worn at her wedding, but that was a mistake. It happened that she did wear her real wedding dress the day before the anniversary. It was a quaint gown, the yellowed tints and scant folds of which looked odd enough in that day of draped and elaborate skirts."

"The old minister who had performed the ceremony was present, and made some simple, affecting remarks."

"The child of Mrs. Hayes' friend, Mrs.
Herron, was christened, as were also the two White House children, Fanny and Scott."

A Cincinnati paper in its edition of June 30, 1886, had the following notice of the marriage of the future President and his bride: This week in so far as society is concerned was fittingly and brilliantly concluded yesterday afternoon with the exchange of marriage vows between Mr. William Howard Taft and Miss Helen L. Herron. The ceremony was observed at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John W. Herron, on Pike street, the hour of 5 o'clock. Rev.
D. M. A. Hoge of Zanesville was the officiating clergyman. The bride, a worthy of note is that he married Mr. and Mrs. Herron many years ago and has since been the ministering angel, so to speak, of the family, having spoken the words that made all the daughters one with their husbands. The bride on this occasion was attired in a superbly fashioned satin robe with embroidered front and veil caught with sprays of white lilies, and a bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley rested lightly in her gloved hand. Misses Maria Herron and Fannie Taft, all in white, as bridesmaids, and Mr. Horace Taft as best man, completed the bridal party.
The handsome home with its burden of floral decorations was the scene of a brilliant reception from 5 until 8 o'clock.
The bride and groom left late in the evening for the east and soon will sail via City of Berlin for Europe. A handsome house on East Walnut street awaits their return."

and Cotton Smith officiated. The bride was escorted by her brother, Mr. John F. Maury, and Dr. Hubley Owens of Philadelphia was the best man.

The bride costume, of Brussels lace over white satin, was that first worn by the bride's grandmother. A bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids was carried and a tulle veil and orange blossoms were worn.

The mayor of Philadelphia and Mrs.
Reynolds, parents of the bridegroom, were present. The family party met at the lingham, the bride's mother, for the wedding breakfast. Representative and Mrs.

groom, wore a white satin gown embroidered in valley lilies and trimmed with rare old lace. Her tulle veil was held by a cap of lace. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She wore the gift of the bridegroom, a diamond and pearl pendant, and the gift of her father, a diamond brooch. She was attended by her sister, who wore white satin embroided in gold, and two little flower girls, Rosemary and Geraldine Edwards, who were dressed in white lingerie frocks over yellow silk, carrying baskets of marguerites.

Mr. J. E. Ballenger of Washington attended his brother as best man, and the ushers were Lieut. E. J.
Marquart, Lieut. L. D. Cussey, Passed Assistant Paymaster E. H. Van Fossen and Passed Assistant Surgeon H. L.
